

December 2004 Meeting

Click here to see photos of the event

Jump-start your writing career. CWC members Paul Cooper, (columns), Donna Gholson-Cook (self-publishing), and Ray Faraday Nelson (science fiction) will share their writing expertise and take questions on Saturday, December 11 during the monthly meeting of the Mt. Diablo Branch of the California Writers Club.

Paul Cooper, Contra Costa Times Columnist and the author of Weekend Warriors, will give us the inside scoop on his column in the Times and talk about his book. Donna Gholson-Cook, author of Gholson Road: Revolutionaries and Texas Rangers, will talk about moving her life forward by self-publishing. Multi-published Ray Faraday Nelson, a guest from the Berkeley branch, will take us into the fascinating world of science fiction.

These three talented club members spoke at our holiday meeting at Blake's at Boundary Oak in Walnut Creek on December 11, 2004.

Click to see more about Donna Gholson-Cook or Ray Faraday Nelson.

Return to Previous Meeting index

Return to main page.